

Dr. Daisy Wen, Internal Medicine Specialist, Joins BMG

WILLIAMSVILLE, NY - Daisy Wen, MD, an attending physician at the Catholic Health System's Sisters of Charity Hospital in Buffalo since 2001, joined the Buffalo Medical Group Department of Internal Medicine earlier this month.

Board certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine, she earned her medical degree at Peking Union Medical College in Beijing, China. Dr. Wen completed her internal medicine residency training at the University at Buffalo School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences, and affiliated hospitals. Her training also included medical research at Toronto General Hospital.

During her eight years at Sisters Hospital, Dr. Wen earned a reputation for providing high quality and comprehensive primary care services. In 2002, she was awarded the Catholic Health System's Medical Medal of Honor for Dedication to Inner-City Health Care. At Sister's Hospital, she also taught and supervised medical residents for the CHS Internal Medicine Residency program.

Dr. Wen is a member of the American College of Physicians, the Medical Society of the State of New York, the Erie County Medical Society, and the Catholic Independent Practice Association of Western New York.

Her office will be at BMG's main Williamsville location, 295 Essjay Road.

Founded in 1946, Buffalo Medical Group, PC, is among the oldest and largest multi-specialty physician practices in New York State and the largest in Western New York. With 90 specialists and sub-specialists as well as a team of 740 nurses, technologists, and other health care professionals, BMG records more than 400,000 outpatient visits annually at its main locations in Buffalo, Williamsville, and Orchard Park and 23 satellite sites.
